FOR HOMEOWNERS WHO ARE SELLING AND MOVING

Know Before You Go

Find out what you can qualify for before you list, before you pack, and before you sign anything. It takes about five minutes and it's free.

- 5-minute prequal check
- City-to-city comparison
- Lender Checklist
- Seller Checklist

Your move, in the right order

1. Prequalify — Know your number
2. Inspect — Find surprises early
3. Fix — Repairs, liens, payoff
4. List — Go on the MLS ready
5. Pack — Line up the new home
6. Move — Close and get the keys

The interactive tools (payment and prequalification check, city comparison, and the request form) work on the live page: is.gd/KBYGJames. Worksheets below can be filled in by hand.

WHY NOW

Don't list first and find out later

Selling your home is the easy part. The surprise usually comes when it's time to buy the next one. Many sellers list, get an offer, and only then learn they can't get the new mortgage they assumed they could, or that their sale nets less than they planned. Then the move is on a clock and the options are thin. Here's what we check for, and why sooner is better:

Credit issues

A late payment, a high card balance, or an old collection can change which loan programs you can use and what they cost. Some of it can be fixed, but it takes time you won't have once you're under contract.

Income changes

A new job, less overtime, retirement, or going self-employed changes how a lender counts your income. Better to hear that now than during underwriting.

Higher costs in the new area

Property taxes, insurance, HOA dues, and flood or wind coverage can be very different from where you live today, and they all count toward your qualifying payment.

Unexpected liens

A judgment, an unpaid tax bill, past-due HOA dues, or a contractor's (mechanic's) lien can show up when the title company searches your home's records. Any of these can delay your closing or stop the sale until they're paid or cleared. Finding them early gives you time to sort them out.

Ask your title company for a preliminary title search before you list.

A higher payoff than you expect

What you owe on your mortgage, HELOC, or second loan is often more than the balance on your statement. Interest adds up daily, and there can be fees, an escrow shortage, or a prepayment charge. That means less cash from your sale for your next down payment.

Request a written payoff statement early, so your net proceeds and down payment are real numbers.

Problems you don't know about yet

A pre-listing home inspection finds issues before a buyer's inspector does, while you still have time to get repairs scheduled and done. See below.

Consider a pre-listing home inspection

An inspection before you go on the MLS shows you what a buyer's inspector will find, while you still control the timeline. Repairs, and especially insurance claims, take weeks to line up.

- Hail or storm damage to the roof. It may be covered by insurance, but a claim means an adjuster visit, an estimate, and then a roofer's schedule.
- Foundation movement or cracks. An engineer's report and repair plan can take time, and buyers and lenders will want to see them.
- Anything that may need an insurance claim (water leaks, storm damage). Call your insurance company first, and give the claim time to work.
- Fewer surprises later. Fixing items up front helps you avoid a last-minute price cut or repair request after the buyer's inspection.

What checking first gives you

- A real price range for your next home, so you shop and list with confidence.
- Real numbers from your sale: an actual payoff and net proceeds, not a guess.
- No rushed decisions and fewer deals falling apart late.
- Time to fix things (pay down a card, correct a credit report error, clear a lien, schedule repairs) before they become deadlines.
- Better timing choices, such as whether to sell first, buy first, or ask for a longer closing or a rent-back.

Checking with a loan officer does not commit you to anything. Your listing agent and I work together so your sale and your purchase fit. A home inspection, title search, and payoff statement come from your inspector, title company, and lender; your listing agent can recommend people to call.

Quick prequalification check

Answer a few questions and see an estimated payment, your debt-to-income ratios, and the loan programs you would likely fit. You don't need to know your taxes, insurance, or mortgage insurance: the tool estimates them for you. Everything is calculated in your browser, and nothing is sent unless you send it to James.

A few things that change the answer

- ☐ I or my spouse served in the military (VA loan may be possible)
- ☐ Late payments or collections in the last 12 months
- ☐ Bankruptcy, foreclosure, or short sale in the last 7 years
- ☐ My income changed, or will change, in the last 2 years (new job, self-employed, retiring, less overtime)
- ☐ The new home is in a rural area

TOOL 2

⇄ Where you live now vs. where you're going

On the live page (is.gd/KBYGJamesCompare), type your current city and your new city to see a side-by-side comparison of home values, rent, household income, property taxes, state income tax, sales tax, and cost of living for about 6,700 U.S. cities and towns, using U.S. Census Bureau, BEA, and Tax Foundation data. Or fill in this worksheet by hand:

	Now	Moving to	Difference
City, state
Typical home value
Typical rent
Property tax rate / yearly tax
State income tax
Sales tax
Cost of living (US = 100)
Home insurance, HOA, utilities

Your notes (schools, commute, insurance quotes, anything else you want to remember)

Sources: Home value, rent, household income, population, and property taxes paid: U.S. Census Bureau, American Community Survey 2020–2024 5-year estimates (tables B25077, B25064, B19013, B01003, B25103), medians for each city or town of about 5,000+ people. Effective property tax rate = median real estate taxes paid ÷ median home value, a rough estimate; your actual bill depends on the appraisal, local rates, and exemptions. Cost of living: U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis, Regional Price Parities 2024 (released Feb. 2026), by metro area; towns outside a metro area use their state's non-metro figure. State income tax: Tax Foundation, top marginal rate on wages as of Jan. 1, 2026 (local income taxes not included). Sales tax: Tax Foundation, state plus average local rate as of July 1, 2026 (state-wide average; the rate in a given city may differ). "n/a" means the source has no figure for that place.

CHECKLIST 1

What a lender will ask for

Start collecting these now. Requirements vary by loan program, and your loan officer may ask for more.

- [ ] Photo ID and Social Security number
- [ ] Last 30 days of pay stubs
- [ ] W-2s for the last 2 years
- [ ] Federal tax returns for the last 2 years (all pages)
- [ ] Self-employed: year-to-date profit and loss, business returns if applicable

CHECKLIST 2

Moving checklist

Before you list

- [ ] Run the prequalification check above and talk to James
- [ ] Pull your credit reports (annualcreditreport.com) and fix errors
- [ ] Request a mortgage payoff statement (and one for any HELOC or second loan)
- [ ] Get a net sheet from your listing agent, using the real payoff
- [ ] Ask your title company to run a preliminary title search for liens
- [ ] Order a pre-listing home inspection
- [ ] Schedule repairs; call your insurance company first if it could be a claim (hail, storm, foundation, water)
- [ ] Decide your timing: sell first, buy first, or a rent-back
- [ ] Declutter, repair, and schedule photos

While under contract

- [ ] Keep jobs, cards, and bank accounts steady. No new debt.
- [ ] Send lender documents the same day they're requested
- [ ] Book movers and get quotes
- [ ] Set up insurance for the new home

Final 2 weeks

- [ ] Change your address (USPS, banks, DMV, subscriptions)
- [ ] Transfer or schedule utilities at both homes
- [ ] Update school and medical records
- [ ] Pack an essentials box and keep key papers with you
- [ ] Plan for your closing funds (cashier's check or wire, verified by phone)

Move day

- [ ] Final walkthrough at the new home
- [ ] Photograph meters, and hand over all keys and openers
- [ ] Confirm your closing time with the title company
